A QUESTION ABOUT THE SEX OF EACH PERSON IS USED TO CREATE STATISTICS ABOUT MALES AND FEMALES AND TO PRESENT OTHER DATA.

These statistics are used in planning and evaluating government programs and in evaluating not only government programs and policies in order to fairly and equitably serve the needs of men and women. These statistics are also used in laws, regulations, and policies about social government programs such as:

Provide information for Education

Data disseminated by sex are used to allocate funds to institutions of higher learning that increase participation, achievement, and employment of scientific and engineering personnel under Education Act.

Ensure Equal Opportunity

Data disseminated by sex are used to evaluate employment practices under the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, using sex-disaggregated data, identifies and evaluates employment practices, identifies and evaluates employment practices, and sex are used to evaluate employment practices and practices under the Civil Rights Act.

Understand Changes

Data and local planners analyze social and economic characteristics of males and females to predict future needs for housing, education, children's health care, transportation, and employment.
